Three Pullman Cars Derailed Between Rhinecliff and Staatsburgh Monday Afternoon—Traffic Delayed Six Hours.

New York Central railroad officials are striving to determine the cause of three Pullman cars on the rear of train 12, jumping the track between Rhinecliff and Staatsburgh Monday afternoon. Train 12 leaves Albany at 11:20 o'clock in the morning. The cars did not overturn and none of the passengers were injured. A porter suffered a slight injury to his head. Traffic on the line was thrown out of schedule for about six hours. The wrecking crew from Poughkeepsie with the aid of the West Albany crew restored conditions to normal. One of the north-bound tracks was used by south-bound trains, but due to the change, traffic between Rhinecliff and Staatsburgh moved slowly.

GETTING READY FOR GIRLS' CAMPS

Application Blanks and Information Circulars Soon Ready for Girl Scouts' Camps at Ideal Park.

The desire on the part of the Kingston Council of the Girl Scouts to provide for the girls of Kingston and the Ulster county towns and villages the benefits of a life in the open and of sharing pleasure and responsibility has led to early preparations for the Girl Scout summer camp at Ideal Park. Application blanks and information circulars will soon be ready for those wishing to attend the camp. A program for younger girls will be emphasized during the month of July, and for older girls during August.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover, who was recently elected president of the National Council of Girl Scouts, was asked by a newspaper reporter to tell why scouting appealed to her and so generally to girls the world over. Here is her reply:

"To my mind one of the most important aspects is found in the recreation provided. This applies to the girl in the country as well as to her sister in the city. I speak particularly of recreation occupying the time spent neither in school nor in the home—the free time of the girl spent with her friends. I have long thought that we are quite as much influenced by our play as by our work and our studies, and the Girl Scouts so direct this play as to bring decidedly beneficial results to the child.

"But the Girl Scouts aim to develop the serious and practical side of the child's life as intelligently as they do her play. All girls—even those whose school and home environments have been satisfactory—are ultimately brought face to face with the problems of the big outside world. They are placed at an early disadvantage if their only preparation has been academic or by precept. The Girl Scouts aim to prevent this. Under Scout direction the girl is encouraged to take her small part in solving the problems of the world; and then to see the troops share in the civic problems of her community. Later on, as she grows in years and experience, she accepts naturally her responsibility in the solution of the larger problems of the state and nation.

"The true Scout spirit really comes from our national life. In the girl of American ancestry it is the delightful legacy left her by her sturdy ancestors. The call of the Scout is the call of a vivid, vital joy in nature and is a challenge to meet the demands of life with the spirit of simple faith and endeavor that marked our pioneer scouting ancestors, men and women, boys and girls. The girls of today feel the call—the love of the open, with its attendant romance and wholesome adventure—and the Scouts aim to make it possible to answer naturally to the call—just as did the girls of 1776 or 1820."

JURORS WANT TO GET BACK HOME

No All Except Fifteen Are Excused At Opening of Trial Term Of Supreme Court Monday.

The May term of supreme court was convened Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the court house with Justice Nichols presiding. There are 255 cases on the calendar but very few of them were ready for trial at the call of the calendar and only three cases were ready for trial today. The day calendar was made up as follows: No. 117, Ward Platt against Anthony Loricchio; Brinnier plaintiff, John P. O'Brien attorney for defendant. No. 171, Ada R. Roberts against Charles Kidd, a negligence action; H. H. Flammang attorney for plaintiff, R. M. McCormick attorney for defendant. No. 207, Archibald Young against Wayne County Produce Company, William D. and William D. Brinnier, Jr., attorneys for plaintiff, Carmody & Carwell attorneys for defendants.

When Judge Nichols announced that all jurors present who desired to be excused could step forward and present their excuses, practically every juror drawn on the trial list responded. After the excuses had been taken all of the jurors except 16 were excused, one of them, Moses E. Green of Wawarsing being excused until next Monday.

Before court adjourned for the day an inquest was taken in No. 226, Marie J. Freund against Charles Michel. H. Westlake Coons appeared for plaintiff. The action was brought to recover damages alleged to have been sustained to plaintiff's property in Ellenville by reason of defendant moving the line fence between the two properties and setting it back, according to the testimony, some five feet on lands of the plaintiff.

Last fall defendant, according to the testimony of Marie J. Freund, moved the line fence over about five feet on her lands and in so doing destroyed a number of shrubs and garden vegetables and plants. Later she admitted that he had made a mistake and moved the fence back again toward his line but plaintiff claims that he still is in possession of some of her lands. After hearing the testimony Judge Nichols directed a verdict in favor of plaintiff for $110, $100 being the cost of replacing the fence and $10 for damages.

Court then went into recess until this morning at 10 o'clock.

HAS STANDARD OIL LOST IN RUSSIA?

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, May 2.—The Shell and Royal Dutch Oil Companies, (British owned), have secured a concession from the Russian government giving them complete control of the production and sale of Russian petroleum, according to a Genoa despatch to the Evening News today. The profits will be split 50-50. Representatives of the Standard Oil Company have been bidding for Russian oil concessions but were turned down because the Moscow government felt that the United States was unfriendly toward Russia.

The Royal Dutch-Shell group is controlled by British capital. The Genoa correspondent of the Evening News quoted Mr. Boyle, the representative of the Royal Dutch and Shell Companies, as saying: "No oil pact has been concluded with Russia."

United States Will Protest.

Washington, May 2.—If reports are true that the Royal Dutch-Shell oil group, (British-owned), have obtained monopolistic privileges in the exploitation of Russia's vast oil supplies, the United States will make a firm and energetic protest. It was learned authoritatively here today.

The state department had no confirmation of the reported deal today and in the absence of official information, officials declined to comment on it for publication. Their concern, however, was manifest.

The United States, it was made clear, has no intention of sitting back and allowing British interests to obtain a stranglehold on the world's oil supply merely because Great Britain is represented at Genoa and the United States is not.

Bedford Refuses to Comment.

New York, May 2.—A. C. Bedford, chairman of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, today refused to comment upon the news from Genoa that the Standard Oil had been defeated by the Royal Dutch-Shell group in the race for Russian mineral concessions. Other officials of the company were equally reticent.

President W. C. Taft, of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, is in Mexico.

The former stated he had not eaten in several days and Judge Schirck staked him to the price of a dinner, and later discharged both with a warning to refrain from stealing a ride on a train hereafter.

ASSAULT CASE IN SUPREME COURT

Ward Platt Claims His Jaw Was Broken By Water Works Cop. Who Denies Assaulting Him.

When Supreme court convened at the court house, this morning, Clerk Geroldsek called the roll of the fourteen talesmen summoned to appear by Sheriff Kolts and act as extra jurors if needed. They are C. Dumont, Henry Dittus, M. Ross, B. Bart Whitaker, Michael White, Isaac Sleight, Nathan Davis, Louis Kellerman, Andrew Kohl, Edward J. Atwater, Abram Hasbrouck, George Gutlander, Elmer Molyneux, George Darling. All answered present.

An inquest was taken in No. 207, Archibald Young against Wayne County Produce Company, William D. and William D. Brinnier, Jr., attorneys for plaintiff, Carmody & Carwell attorneys for defendants. Mr. Young, who was sworn and testified that he had made a contract with defendant company to furnish 6,500 gallons of cider, to purchase $1,250 pounds of apples at $1.10 per hundred for defendant and had paid freight of $128 on barrels; that no part of plaintiff's claim of $1,211.75 had been paid. After hearing the testimony of Mr. Young judgment was ordered by Justice Nichols for that amount with interest from November 1, 1921, against defendant.

No. 117, Ward Platt against Anthony Loricchio, an action for damages was then taken up. William D. Brinnier appeared for plaintiff, John O'Brien of New York for defendant. Defendant, a member of the New York board of water supply police, is being sued for damages claimed by Platt who resides at Shandaken and who charges that on the night of April 30, 1921, Loricchio without cause struck him with his fist, kicked him and broke his jaw in two places. He claims this happened near the police barracks at Alhambra.

The defendant denies all the allegations of plaintiff and that the assault was committed without cause and claims that the plaintiff on the night in question with others was near the Alhambra station, that they had been drinking, that Platt went in front of the police barracks about sixty feet distance and hollered and caused such disturbance that the policemen were awakened about 1:30 in the morning of May 1, and that defendant came from the barracks with a lantern, took Platt by the arm and threatened that he would not let him go until he had paid for his damages. Platt did not know who hit him, and that he had stated two or three weeks after the alleged assault that Officer Gaynor did it.

Platt on the stand admitted being at the barn near the barracks for four hours with three or four others and drinking cider, also that he had hollered. Dr. H. P. Van Wageningen of this city testified as to taking X-rays of the broken jaw of Platt.

The testimony was concluded about 11:45 and the case summed up and given to the jury at 12:30 o'clock.

HARDING SEEKS TO PROSECUTE FRAUD

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, May 2.—President Harding today asked congress for an additional appropriation of $500,000 to enable the department of justice to prosecute claims against persons who are charged with defrauding the government through war contracts.

The president's request was approved by Director of the Budget, Dawes and was said to have been asked by Attorney General Daugherty, who pointed out that appropriations previously made for the department of justice were not sufficient to carry on investigations of war contract frauds.

FIRE CRACKERS BETTER THAN GUNS

Chinese Army Resorts to Story Book Device in Capturing First 1,000 Prisoners of War.

(Copyright, 1922, by I. N. S.)

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Wu Pei Fu's Headquarters, Pao Ting Fu, China, May 2.—For ways that are dark and tricks that are vain, the heathen Chinese is peculiar. This old verse is being exemplified in the strategy being employed in the present fighting.

The first prisoners of the war, 1,000 of Chang Tso-Lin's soldiers were captured by troops fighting under Wu Pei-Fu by a trick which supplanted modern instruments of warfare.

The detachment of Chang's army was encountered the first day of the fighting. No machine guns were available for an assault at that point, but this did not worry Wu's strategists. A number of five gallon oil cans bearing a familiar American label were pressed into service. Hundreds of fire crackers set off inside the cans, gave forth a sound identical with heavy machine gun fire. The noise was enough. The detachment surrendered.

PUBLIC MARKET OPENED TODAY

Owing to Earliness of Season But One Wagon With Load of Asparagus, Which Sold Out Quickly, Was On Hand—Open Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Kingston's public market on Cornhill street, one block from Broadway, opened this morning in charge of Market Commissioner William Moyle. Owing to the earliness of the season when home products are not ready to harvest, only one wagon loaded with asparagus was present at the opening. The load was quickly sold.

The market will be open hereafter during the season on Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays. As the season advances it is expected that the market will prove an even bigger success than last year, when over $70,000 worth of fruit and vegetables were disposed of at the market.

INDIANA PRIMARY ELECTION TODAY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Indianapolis, Ind., May 2.—Unsettled weather was on the cards today when Indiana voters, casting ballots in the first state-wide primary in which women have participated, went to the polls to give sweeping endorsement of the administration or administer crushing repudiation of President Harding's regime.

The spotlight was focussed on the contest between Senator Harry B. New, and ex-Senator Albert J. Beveridge for the Republican nomination for United States senator. Victory for Senator New will be interpreted as an out-and-out endorsement of the administration, while victory for Mr. Beveridge will be looked on as a rebuke to President Harding.

Nomination is considered by unbiased observers, who gave Senator New the edge in today's voting, to be tantamount to election, although it is admitted that ex-Governor Samuel Ralston, whom it was expected the Democrats will nominate, will give the Republican nominee a good race in November.

Senator New has made his campaign frankly on the basis of the administration's record. Mr. Beveridge has refrained from commending the administration or the achievements of the armament conference, although he has let it be known he would not "rock the boat" if elected. Indiana today was also voting on nominees for congress, the legislature, county and township officers, but the senatorial contest transcended all others in its import.

HARDING MAY ACT TO END STRIKE

Months' Old Controversy In Coal Industry May Receive Official Attention Unless Amicably Settled Soon.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Washington, May 2.—Unless the coal strike is amicably settled within the next month, President Harding, backed by all the powers of the government, will act to end the now months' old controversy. It was learned authoritatively today.

With Secretary of Commerce Hoover and other of his cabinet officers, the president has concluded a plan for curing the periodically strike-diseased coal industry. The plan, it was learned today, does not contemplate harsh measures with either the operators or striking miners. Rather it involves the offering of inducements by the government to.

Encourage greater summer production of coal as the most obtainable means of stabilizing the industry.

Furnish greater storage facilities through the instrumentality of government loans if necessary.

Lowering of freight rates on coal during the summer months.

To accomplish these remedies, the president, if called upon to act in the interest of the public, will suggest a joint conference sanctioned by the government and approved by the presidential call of any possible stigma of violation of law.

While the president is busy working out details of his own plan for the settlement of the pending strike, the house labor committee continued today its work of framing legislation designed to prevent future coal strikes.

Helps digestion —and cleans a coated tongue

Thousands of men and women have found relief from various digestive disturbances by using Fleischmann's Yeast.

It is human nature to want to find out "why." So far as science can tell us this is the reason:

Fleischmann's Yeast is a food abundant in certain elements which are necessary to health and life itself. It promotes the flow of bile and of pancreatic juice. It has a remarkably beneficial effect on the whole digestive process. It cleans a coated tongue.

Try Fleischmann's fresh yeast in orange juice or in milk. Men like it in milk shakes and mashed milk. Women like it spread on bread or crackers.

Keep your digestion in the pink of condition and your tongue clean and healthy by eating 2 or 3 cakes of Fleischmann's Yeast fresh every day before or between meals. Be sure it's Fleischmann's Yeast—the familiar tin-foil package with the yellow label. Place a standing order with your grocer today.

Hair Often Ruined By Careless Washing

Soap should be used very carefully. If you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it. The best thing for steady use is Mulshiff's coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulshiff's in a cup of glass with a little warm water is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage. You can get Mulshiff's coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy. It's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulshiff's.—Advertisement.

The Cornell Annuals Board have announced the election of Edward Tryon Miller, '24, of Woodland, N. Y., as junior associate editor for 1922 of Cornell University's yearbook, "The Cornellian."

Miller's election was the result of his success in an editorial competition of six months' duration and makes him eligible for election to the position of editor-in-chief in his senior year. The "Cornellian" is a large publication of over seven hundred pages and is recognized as one of the finest college year books in the country.

Miller was graduated from Kingston High School in 1920 and was very prominent in activities there, being editor-in-chief of the K. H. S. "Maroon" in his senior year and also a member of the varsity debating team.

Miller is the second K. H. S. man to make a name for himself at the Ithaca institution this year. Joseph Purcell, K. H. S. Early Learned Truth About Earth. Eratosthenes was a Greek mathematician living in Egypt. He wrote a book on geography, and had so clear a perception of the shape of the earth that more than 1,700 years before Columbus he affirmed that it would be possible to sail from Spain to India by going always westward. He needed no telescope and no chronometer to find that out. Eratosthenes measured the circumference of the earth on precisely the principle that still lies at the basis of geodesy.

SIGNS OF MODES FOR THE SEASON

ocks Will Have Fullness; Be Longer; Will Have Decorative Sleeves.

ROSE SHORT COAT FAVORED

Each Have Adopted the Style and Americans are Following.—New Woollen Fabric Good Substitute for Silk.

ocks this spring will have fullness, they will have a little added length, not an accented amount, as a fashion writer in the New York Times. There will be sleeves as decorative as any part of a pageant's drapings in every style allied with the essence of smartness will be there, while the actual spring creations in their newest American and foreign interpretations, await release to the public.

ettes of Fluted and Fringed Ribbon Trimming a Gown of Silk Crepe.

no women are doing nothing of the sort. Perhaps they will come around with a wild rush to dress as they are seen, but as yet they have shown no disposition in that direction. Their feeling for longer skirts is when they wear loosely hanging panels which about so softly in the breeze that they can scarcely distinguish whether they are long or not.

Still, the fact remains that the spring models making their appearance have somewhat longer skirts, though not nearly so long as might have been suspected.

We have the loose, short coat for spring. This is something entirely new, for it has sleeves that often are made kimono-fashion. The French have adopted this style, and we are following, even though we are prone to consider the suit as something which has tight-fitted sleeves with armholes that are as defined and fitted and shaped as any tailored man's garment—and sometimes more so. The little, loose coat will be one of the spring features, and while sometimes it will be combined with a skirt of some other material and some contrasting color, the coat will be striped or striped and the skirt will be plain, or the combination will be reversed and the skirt will carry the pattern, while the coat will be plain.

With or Without Wraps. Street dresses for spring—those that can be worn with or without wraps to protect them—are perhaps the most interesting of all the new dresses. They form the foundation-note for any costume suits, as they are called, and it is a simple matter to select a wrap or a top coat that carries out the scheme of the dress, once the scheme has been given some distinction of design. Long models show things which the designers consider to be the most interesting designs for wear during the coming season. They have all the features which make the new fashions popular, and they are made from the materials which will be most used for spring.

A dress with a simulated jacket is made of dark blue wool velours. In an extremely light weight. Its edges are raised closely, so that the little addition to the bodice suggests a jacket. The sleeves are made puffed and full, and are gathered into tightly fitted and fringed cuffs, which represent features of the newer type of spring dresses.

This dress shows one of those clever changes of panels, making the skirt look surprisingly long at some angles and at others as short as the shortest they have ever been. The round neckline taken by the panels at their lower ends adds a portion of charm to the skirt which could not possibly be gained by a straight cut off line at that point.

The waistline for this frock is placed at a normal point, and it repeats the suggestion of rows of braiding used to trim the jacket so effectively. Then, the trimming motif is carried again to the sleeves, where it not only follows around the odd-shaped cuffs, but faces detached strips of the material that hang away from the sleeves, from the elbows to the cuffs.

Steeves—always sleeves—sleeves in varying widths and varying styles, are the salient features of the frocks which are notable for spring.

Trimmed With Ribbon Rosettes. A winsome dress is trimmed with a series of ribbon rosettes applied to a heavy crepe. The crepe is one of the brownish, golden tones, that can stand by itself for coloring, except for the fact that the rosettes are made of a succession of pleated and fringed ribbons in dull reds, and greens and browns.

The hat, too, has been cleverly made of a series of the same rosettes set around the brim of a closely fitting turban. And then rows of ribbon, set on straight, around the waistline and sleeves, end at one side of the waist in a fringed series of tags dangling over the skirt where it is draped at that point.

This dress shows one of the longer waistlines which, from all that can be learned about the coming fashions, is something likely to remain with us for at least another season. This is cheerful news for the long, slim figures, which can so well stand the line; but for the shorter women there is every chance they will find the normal waistline and, in some instances, a line that is higher still, the fashion for them.

More and more is the fact disclosed that one places one's waistline, and the rest of the lines of one's costume, for the matter of that, exactly where one wishes, for the fashion of individuality grows upon the population as time goes on. More and more women are willing to take the courageous step which stamps them as persons with their very own style of dressing.

The newer woollen fabrics for spring are something to be wondered at and loved, for they are woven in so soft and pliable a manner that, from a distance, one cannot tell them from silken materials. The Rodier kasha cloth has made a distinct sensation, for it is being used right and left for the making of street dresses, two-piece costumes and suits of various sorts. Its chief attribute is that, while it is as soft as any woollen material coming from the looms in many a long year, it is shown in many and vivid colorings, so that any taste and any style of garment can be successfully carried out with this material as a foundation.

Kasha Cloth is Popular.

For all the dresses which used to feature serge, kasha cloth is now used, for it is only a refined and beautiful serge, with all the surface of a wool velours and all of the foundation weave of a serge, to give it firmness and solidity of texture.

Then silks have taken a very strong place in the designing and making of clothes for the street which are always the first dresses to be considered for spring. Silks have such strength of texture that they serve excellently for all sorts of frocks for which woollen materials have usually been employed.

It takes a long while to turn the mind in the direction of accepting silk as a material for street dresses—especially if one expects them to amount to anything after they have been given any amount of wear. However, such is the perfection of heavy silk as it is woven today that it can fairly stand alongside the heavier materials and compete with them, on an equal basis.

The Dress of Dark Blue Twill With Red and White Braid Trimmings.

For all the honors of giving steady wear, of providing an economical medium of dressing, and so on, through all the necessary attributes of any material which attempts to take an honored place among those sponsored by American women for any sort of reasonable wear.

Of course, for afternoon or evening wear silks have always been accepted, but this new venture is something that will be welcomed once women come to realize the many advantages that can be gained by wearing a material that is so light and comfortable and easy to wear.

Favored for Various Garments.

Capes of silk, and wrapping coats of silk, and short coats of silk, all come within the new range of this material. Some of the most picturesque of the modern garments have been made from the new and sumptuous weaves of crepe silks lately put upon the market. One expects to find them clinging and drooping of line, and is surprised to see them with quite an up-standing manner of their own, not usually attributed to anything with a silken weave for its texture. The enhanced beauty of these silk outer things is that they can be lined with other and different colored silks, taking on an added charm thereby. Somehow one silk backed against another silk is more charming.

GRAY CREPE DE CHINE GOWN

Although simple in line this creation is rendered lovely by the glistening beads in diamond-shape design. The slashed sleeve is held at the wrist by a bracelet of the beads. The hat is of bright straw with large frosted cherries.

FASHIONS FOR THE KIDDIES

Crinkled Seersucker Leading Fabric for Youngsters' Garments; Cotton is Featured.

The novel cotton fabrics featured this season make interesting children's dresses.

Among the practical wash materials featured for children's dresses for the coming warm weather season is crinkled seersucker, known by several other names, but seersucker nevertheless. This fabric might be trimmed with wool fringe or wool embroidery with very good effect, as it is of good body, and comes in all sorts of interesting colors and color combinations.

Plain brown chambray is used to make some smart little frocks, trimmed in ruffles of organdie in contrasting color, and often with wool embroidery matching the ruffles. Chambray in various colors is combined with narrow striped gingham with very good effect.

A dainty party dress for a very small girl is fashioned of white and pale blue voile. The cut of the dress is interesting, in that two perfectly straight sections are used, pinched at the top to form a sort of yoke, banded all around with the blue voile (the dress proper is in white), and with fagoting holding the two panels together on each side from skirt hem to armhole. The dress is caught on the shoulders with bows of blue ribbon, so that a wide neck line is effected.

MUCH INTEREST IN SLEEVES

The Wide, Flowing Wing Arm Covering is Featured in the Majority of Dresses.

Novel and interesting sleeves may certainly be recorded as one of the high lights of spring and summer styles, and the range of types featured is very wide. Practically all sleeves, except those shown in strictly tailored or sport suits, flare somewhere, and not infrequently there is a generous width from armhole to wrist.

Sleeves of the peasant type, quite full, but drawn into a narrow cuff at the wrist, are popular both in dresses and blouses, and variety is given to them by various slashings so that the bare arm is visible. Sometimes such a sleeve is slit its entire length either on the inner or outer arm; sometimes it is fashioned of several strips or sections merely held together at the armhole and by the cuff, and again the sleeve will be slit from wrist to elbow only.

The leg-of-mutton sleeve still attracts attention, but has not attained the vogue that was early predicted for it, and in formal gowns and handsome negligee garments wide, flowing wing sleeves are much featured.

WATER COLORS ON WALLS

Mottled or Flocked Effect May Be Obtained by Using Sponge Cut Across Grain.

A rather unusual, very artistic and much employed process in decorating walls, is that by which various colors are employed. First, the background of the plain flat desired tint is applied and this in turn mottled or flecked with one or two additional harmonizing colors applied with an open sponge cut across the grain so as to present a flat surface.

With this process, tinted effects, formerly done only with paint and at a considerable expenditure of time and money, may be produced quickly at a price that will be within reach of the humble homes and cottages. For this work, a water color wall decoration may be used instead of kalsomine, paint or wall paper.

FIGHTING TUBERCULOSIS.

According to the State Charities Aid Association, the menace of tuberculosis begins to fade and it is no longer chief among causes of death. Fifteen years of persistent effort against tuberculosis have brought a decline of one-third in the death rate.

In 1907, tuberculosis in all its forms caused 6,330 deaths, according to the statistics gathered by the State Charities Aid Association, and it led all other diseases as the cause of death. But in 1921 the number of deaths attributable to tuberculosis was 4,801, and it had become fifth on the list of death-causes.

In place of tuberculosis as the leading cause of death, organic heart disease and endocarditis have come forward from third place in 1907, with 6,180 deaths, to first place in 1921 with a total of 10,609 deaths.

The showing as regards tuberculosis is encouraging to the men and women both in the medical profession and among laymen who have been fighting that disease, but apparently no steps are being taken generally to check the big death list due to organic heart disease. Probably one reason for the increase in deaths from that cause is the change in the manner of living. We are living a faster pace in a faster age than formerly and the steps to check the steady drain and sudden strain on reserve strength have not kept pace with the faster life. Organic heart disease is less likely to be suspected than almost any other disease and for that reason less care is shown by individuals in taking steps to prevent sudden death.

But the fact that heart disease rather than tuberculosis or other diseases has taken first place as the cause of death is an encouraging indication of the work of disease-prevention that is being carried on. There must be some "first" in the cause of death. As long as the leading cause is not one attributable to infectious or contagious disease, there is cause for rejoicing. It shows that science and an educated public opinion can accomplish much to continue life. If the same attention is given by physicians and individuals to overcoming the causes which lead to heart trouble, the total number of deaths resulting from organic heart disease, while it still may lead, will show a smaller total than at present.

THREATENED POLAND.

Poland joined the Allies in the note of rebuke to Germany for entering into the treaty of Rapallo with Russia. As a consequence a menacing message has been sent to Poland's delegates at Genoa by the Bolshevik government which has troops encamped near the Polish frontier. In the recent Russo-Polish war, after the Russians had advanced as far as the suburbs of Warsaw, there was a sudden turn of the tide, said to be due to French generalship. The Bolshevik government withdrew its discomfited troops, but they are still held ready near the Polish border, and the menacing message to the offending Polish delegates at Genoa shows that the incident is not regarded as closed.

After the World War and its readjustments it was widely hoped that a long period of security had been achieved for Poland, but that country is still hemmed in by Russia and Germany, is hated and desired by both, and is difficult of access by any nation such as France which, for not altogether unselfish reasons, might wish to render aid. Poor Poland still occupies a position of great peril, for the very Communists of Russia and Socialists of Germany, though prating of popular rights, are as greedy for slices of Poland as ever were the Cossacks and Hohenzollerns. The only hope of exposed and threatened Poland is that the League of Nations, eventually strengthened by practically universal support, may have both the will and the actual available power if needed to enforce a decree that the little hemmed-in kingdom shall not be disturbed and shall be left free to prosper in peace.

Whether fireflies possess "a miniature audio tube and a broadcasting apparatus of low frequency and short wave length," as a wireless operator of our navy is quoted as saying, they can be depended on to furnish light of a sort. Cuban peasants confine the large fireflies of their country (the cocuyo) in small wicker cages and use these as lamps in their cabins at night.

Brother communists in Italy and elsewhere are reported to be much annoyed because the leader of the Soviet delegation at Genoa not only attended a luncheon given by the King of Italy but wore a silk hat. Tehtcherin is said to retort that he may put his legs under even a king's mahogany without becoming a traitor to the proletarian cause. Perhaps he would have liked to say that it is possible to be Bolshevnik without being a fool.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Dept. of this paper, enclosing self-addressed and stamped envelope for reply.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. What creature makes the pipping note heard from pools, old ponds, and wagon ruts after the winter's snow has disappeared? I have heard some persons claim it was a toad, others a frog.

2. How can whales keep their warmth when they live in cold water like fishes?

3. How is it possible to hear the bluebird's note in spring before the bird is seen?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Is there such a thing as a two-headed snake?

We never saw one; one reads accounts occasionally of various freaks in nature where double heads are seen. There is a real snake, Charina bottes, one of the small boas found along the Pacific coast region and somewhat eastward, that looks so much alike both ends—owing to blunt tail—as to be called "the two-headed snake." It is a constrictor, perfectly normal in formation. Smooth body, yellow underneath, gray, brown, or olive plain above. A burrower.

2. Can fish make any noise?

Yes, there is one called the Croaker, from its habit of making a croaking or grunting noise—Micropterus undulatus. It is a small food fish that lives chiefly along the southern Atlantic and Gulf coast.

3. What is the matter with a hen when the comb and gills turn black?

We cannot prescribe for sick stock. Poultry afflicted with fowl typhoid and fowl plague, show dark or black combs as a symptom. Fowl plague is highly infectious, and the victims should be destroyed and the yard disinfected. It is transmitted from one individual to another by secretions of mouth and nostrils by droppings, and through skin wounds. It is not thought, however, that ticks or lice carry the disease germ.

REV. PHILIP B. STRONG

SEES MANY IMPROVEMENTS

The Rev. Philip B. Strong, of Plainfield, N. J., formerly pastor of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church, who recently received a hearty welcome from Kingstonsians when he made a brief visit to Kingston, has written to The Freeman expressing his appreciation of his reception and referring to some of the changes which he noticed.

Dr. Strong says:

"I should be glad to refer through you the great pleasure experienced upon my recent visit to the Colonial City, in the cordial welcome given me by all.

"Especially would I express my delight at the marked improvements which I saw there. Its streets are alike a joy to look at and to ride over. Its stores show a no-to-date-ness which promises much for the future prosperity of the city.

"But perhaps I remember with keenest interest my visit to the high school. While I was greatly pleased with the building itself, and its modern equipment, I was still more impressed with the personnel of its teaching force and most of all with the good order and bearing of the young people in attendance.

"I have visited many high schools as my work takes me into such associations constantly but I have never seen a finer lot of boys and girls than were assembled yesterday morning. Surely Superintendent Michael and Principal Lewis and all the noble corps of teachers and the entire city of Kingston, up-town and down-town, have just cause for pride in this magnificent institution and its earnest and enthusiastic student body.

"Most appreciatively and cordially yours,

"PHILIP B. STRONG."

MARDIN'S WIDOW SUES FOR HUSBAND'S DEATH

Mrs. James Harding of Gardiner has brought suit in the county court of Orange county against Moses Schoonmaker of Walden for $25,000 for shooting her husband, who was instantly killed with a shotgun in the hands of Schoonmaker while trying to enter the latter's home in January last. Harding had driven to Walden on business and on his return at midnight went to the home of the Schoonmakers, who were relatives, and aroused the inmates by pounding on the door. Schoonmaker mistook him for a burglar and on his failure to leave in response to a warning shot him dead. An effort was made by the February grand jury to have Schoonmaker indicted, but the jury failed to do so and the civil action was brought.

MADE DOG CARRY KITTENS

Mother Cat Had No Compunction at All in Making Friends Do All the Work.

An English lady, says a contributor to the Cornhill Magazine, having received a kitten and a puppy as gifts, determined to bring them up together. She put them into the same bed, fed them from the same saucer, and they became fast friends.

In time the kitten arrived at maturity. She presented the world with little ones and chose for their nursery a remote and quiet room in the house. But in a few days she evidently decided that there was a better place for them in a room on the floor above. Instead of removing the kittens herself, she trotted off to her friend the dog and got him to follow her to the spot where the kittens were lying. When he had looked at them she started off to the upper room, and he followed her, but, seeing that he was — so to speak — "empty handed," she doubled back and returned to the kittens; and eventually after two or three more false starts he understood her and, picking up one of the kittens in his mouth followed her up the stairs to the new place. "That was as far as his understanding went, and she had to conduct him back to the other kittens and repeat the whole performance again and again until in the end he had removed them all and she was happy in her new quarters."

But it was not the ideal spot after all, she was happy there only for a day. Again she summoned the dog, and he moved all the kittens again, but more readily than at first. Again the cat became dissatisfied and the dog moved the kittens again. From first to last there were so many removals that the lady lost count of their number.

SUDDEN CHANGE OF OPINION
Or Possibly the Lady Had Really Been Enjoying Herself and Wasn't Aware of It.

At one of those banquets where almost every one is called on to make a short speech or to tell a funny story, a woman who sat near the speaker's table was heard to remark after nearly every story told:

"My goodness, that's another old one. Why don't they tell some new ones?"

Regardless of whether the speaker got a good laugh, she complained to her companion of the antiquity of the stories.

"I've never been to a worse affair. I wish they would cut it short. I'd rather have stayed home than come, she bitterly asserted."

In the midst of her harangue the toastmaster beamed in her direction, and said:

"Now, there is Mrs. —. She is one of the most charming workers in our organization and I know we would all be glad to hear her speak."

Unmoved, Mrs. — managed to get on her feet, and addressed the guests thusly:

"I really don't know what to say, only that I am so glad to be here with you. I just said to the lady sitting next to me what a perfectly splendid time I was having. I didn't know we had so many clever people in the organization who could tell such funny stories." — Indianapolis News.

Curiosity Satisfied
I have been in the habit of patronizing a printing shop near home, and on each occasion I have noticed a man in particular who never spoke to me. He always had a scowl on his face. Recently I went to a nearby town by interurban and sat in the smoker. A man across the aisle spoke to me.

"You patronize the Thomas print shop don't you?"

I said "Yes."

He said "I thought I had seen you in there several times."

I said "Tell me, who is that heavy set man with the white mustache who is such an internal grouch?"

"I guess you must mean me. I just had the mustache shaved off this morning," said he. — Chicago Tribune

Bold South American Thieves
Two ingenious thieves, finding the streets of Buenos Ayres, Argentina, too well guarded for daylight holdups, recently succeeded in using police headquarters for one of their operations. Accosting a middle-aged man of prosperous appearance, they showed him detective badges and insisted he must accompany them to headquarters and there explain how he came by the gold watch and other valuables he carried. To avoid a scene the man accompanied them. They took him to an unused room at headquarters and relieved him of everything of value. Then, indicating a door of a room where his protests of innocence would be attended to they vanished.

Lost Forty-eight War Vessels.
During the period when the United States was actually at war, April 6, 1917, to November 11, 1918, the loss of navy vessels was 48 of all classes. On these vessels 1,150 lives were lost. The list includes one battleship, the Minnesota, transports, tankers, submarine chasers, yachts, etc.

Town in Class by Itself
George, a new town on the Columbia river in Washington, will be in a class by itself for when coupled with the name of the state it regains itself as the most patriotic place in the United States. Another acquisition of names is a little crossroads village in Klickitat county called Jazz.

There was a crooked man he had a crooked scheme, making like a fish quick—it sounded like a dream. His victims he would nail by crook levers through the mail, and now he is doing time in a little crooked jail.

SAMMY SAUSAGE'S DISCOVERY

"I've discovered something," said Sammy Sausage. "Yes, I have."

"What is a discovery?" asked Pinky Pig.

"Grunt, grunt, what is it?" asked Porky Pig.

"Sneal, sneal, what is it?" asked Miss Ham.

"Do tell me, grunt, grunt," said Mrs. Pink Pig.

"Tell me first," said Master Pink Pig.

"Sneal, sneal, tell me first," said Pinky Pig.

"Ah, no, tell me first," said Brother Bacon.

"Tell me first, grunt, grunt," said a good friend of yours.

"Ha, ha," said Sammy Sausage.

"You're a fine friend when you think I have something I may share with you. But why you have such an idea or where you got it from is something I cannot understand."

"I don't know where you ever picked up an idea. You must have been hunting for silly ideas in a rubbish heap."

"Dear me, grunt, grunt," said Brother Bacon.

"One doesn't find ideas of any sort in a rubbish heap. One finds rubbish in a rubbish heap. There! You see how wise I am."

"I don't see that you are wise at all," said Sammy Sausage.

"I hear you say that you are, or rather I hear you telling me to see how wise you are."

"But I won't pay any attention to it. For I know you're not wise."

"Suppose I said that one found roses on rose bushes, would that make me bright?"

"Ah," said Brother Bacon.

"There aren't always roses on rose bushes. But in a rubbish heap there is always rubbish."

"How do you know?" said Sammy Sausage.

"Well, there must be," said Brother Bacon.

"If there wasn't any rubbish on a rubbish heap there wouldn't be any rubbish heap. Now what do you think of your smart pig relative?"

"No more than I over have," said Sammy Sausage.

Joseph Billings says we all desire to ultimately go up higher. But as to the time of starting. None seems in haste about departing.

For whether one goes straight to glory Or pines away in purgatory Is a question that's not yet decided At least the doctors are divided.

For me, I'm far from being a fly To find out a lack in purgatory. And so I keep a well-filled jar And hope to find it a day or two.

—John J. Smith

WHAT TO PUT INTO THE COOKY JAR

Is there any sweet which takes the place of a nicely made cookie? If so we hope to hear about it. In the making and baking of any kind of cookies, care must be taken to make them according to directions and use great care in the baking.

Old-Fashioned Ginger Snaps.—Bring to the boiling point one cupful of molasses, add one-half cupful of sugar and two-thirds of a cupful of butter or good shortening, one tablespoonful of ginger, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and one teaspoonful of soda. Beat and mix well and set on ice after adding enough flour to roll. When well chilled, roll and cut. Bake in a moderate oven.

Grandma's Cookies.—Cream one cupful of butter and add two cupfuls of sugar and three well-beaten eggs. Dissolve a teaspoonful of soda in a tablespoonful of hot water, add two tablespoonfuls of cream and mix all the ingredients together. Add one and one-half tablespoonfuls of ginger and flour to roll (three or four cupfuls). Place in the ice chest overnight. In the morning roll very thin, cut out and bake.

Sugar Cookies.—Cream one cupful of butter and three cupfuls of sugar together, add three well-beaten eggs, one cupful of milk in which one teaspoonful of soda has been dissolved, one small nutmeg grated, and flour to roll. One may vary this recipe by adding grated orange or lemon peel, nuts, or seeds of various kinds. This makes a large quantity, but there are no good that they do not last long.

The secret of good cookie making is to use as little flour as possible in rolling out. By chilling the mixture well, the rolling out is very easy.

Nellie Maxwell

Vindicates the Turkey.

Charges of larceny commonly preferred against turkeys that range in grain fields may be definitely withdrawn following significant evidence that the homely birds choose one fat cricket to a whole field of grain during the summer that they fit themselves for the Thanksgiving sacrifice. A count made last fall of the contents of a typical tom's crop showed 240 grasshoppers, 50 black crickets and nine kernels of grain. Turkeydom roasts its case on many similar evidence in other states.

Timothy May From New England.

Timothy May was first grown in the New England states and was brought to the Carolinas in 1720 by Timothy Hanson, from whom it derives its name.

Biblical mention is made of nineteen different species of turkeys, six metals, one hundred and four crosses and plants, thirty-five animals, thirty-nine birds, six fishes, eleven reptiles, twenty insects and other smaller creatures.

Better and Easier Baking than our ancestors ever dreamed of

THE New Perfection Oven is scientifically designed. It has the most perfect system of oven ventilation yet devised.

First of all, it bakes evenly from all directions in the oven—top, bottom and all sides. Then, the doors are locked tightly at three points, thus preventing the loss of heat. The oven has glass windows through which the interior is visible at all times. These windows are not easily broken, except by accident, and can be readily and cheaply replaced with ordinary glass.

Cleanliness and economy, lightness, durability, perfect cooking with the least possible care and trouble—the New Perfection assures all of these. Which explains why this cook stove is more popular than any other five makes combined.

Progressive dealers everywhere handle the New Perfection, because it is the most satisfactory oil cook stove made.

Rachelet Magnetic Wave Generator Finds Favor With British As Well As American Physicians And Hospitals.

The Rachelet Medical Appliance Company is shipping a Type "A" Rachelet Magnetic Wave Generator to Dr. Francis Humphris of London. Dr. Humphris is vice-president of the section of electro therapeutics of the Royal Society of Medicine and an international authority on physiotherapy and electrotherapy.

His text book "Electric Therapeutics for Practitioners" is a standard authority in this field and widely used by both British and American physicians. During the world war Dr.

the x-ray and electro therapeutic department of the third London general hospital and was also for a time consulting x-ray physician to the British forces in Egypt. Dr. Humphreys lectured for many years in the the American Electro Therapeutic Association.

In England, as in America, physiotherapy and especially electro-therapy has made rapid progress as a result of the remarkable effective work accomplished in government hospitals during the war and in connection with rehabilitation service. The Bachelet Company is receiving excellent reports of results obtained from the use of the Electro Magnetic Wave Generator in government institutions. It finds a wide field for the introduction of its apparatus for such use in the United States and Europe.

An interesting feature of the Bachelet Company's activities of the time, is the filling of a number of repeat orders from physicians who purchased the Bachelet apparatus several months ago and are finding it so useful in their electro therapeutic work that they are now ordering a second and in some cases a third machine to complete their Bachelet equipment.

The portable model, which was added to the Bachelet line in January, is proving to be a useful supplement to the larger office machines. Physicians using the larger models in their office practice are now ordering the new portable model for use at the bedside of patients, enabling them to treat cases with the Bachelet in which office treatment is impossible.

In a number of cases physicians who have purchased the portable model, in order to test the efficacy of the Bachelet generators in their practice, are now ordering the larger office machines as a result of their favorable experience with the portable apparatus.

—NOW GOING ON—

You can't get away from the fact that our prices are actually lower than inferior styles and qualities are offered for as a rule, and much lower than the same class of goods can be found elsewhere. This is abundantly proven by the enormous business we have created in so short a time.

The leading business of Kingston on women's wearing apparel did not come to us by accident. Those who saw our displays this season understand one reason, and those who see the prices here this week will understand the other. The women are scarce who will select anything in wearing apparel without first coming to The Paris.

More than twenty lives were lost and property valued at millions of dollars swept away when the Trinity River flooded a vast area between Fort Worth and Dallas, Texas. Heavy rains caused the rise in the stream. This first picture from the flood territory shows the tracks of the Houston & Texas Central Railroad being washed away near Ferris, Texas.

Porridge Makes Scots Sturdy.
Has porridge made Scots sturdy? New light has been thrown upon this subject by the discovery within the last few years that porridge may have a strong effect upon the mysterious pituitary gland—which is a small organ at the base of the brain, determining our size and physical characteristics. If this little chemical factory is too active we are liable to become giants; if it does not work hard enough we may be Tom Thumbs. Some doctors now say that porridge makes the gland work in such a way as to produce the high cheek bones and splendid bodies which are the trademark of the Scots.

Evil Seen in Baby's Teeth.
Among the Cougo natives a superstitious belief exists that the appearance of a baby's first teeth on the upper jaw is an ill omen to the community and that the child must therefore be killed.

Miss Lucinda Rich of this city was the maid of honor and the best man was the groom's brother, Kenneth Barker. The bride wore white Canton crepe with lace panels and carried a bridal bouquet. Miss Rich wore organdy over pink silk and carried a heart rose. The bride's gift to the maid of honor was a silver vanity case. A wedding breakfast was served and the happy couple left by auto for their home, 169 Dayton street, Newark, N. J., amid the showers of best wishes from all those present. Their gifts were numerous and valuable, among them being a Buick touring car, a gift to the bride from her father. Miss Mase attended the Kingston High School and is remembered with affection by many of her classmates and by friends who join in wishing her continuous prosperity in her new home.

There was a man in our town, and he was wonderful wise;
He collected only envelopes of regulation size.
His friends thought it more stylish the little ones to use,
But when their mail kept getting lost they quickly changed their views.

HOW MR. BRINNIE SOLVED PROBLEM

Only One Way To Award Seven Prizes Where Four Were Provided—Gracious Generosity Appreciated.

Ex-mayor William D. Brinnier of this city solved the problem of how to award seven prizes where only four were provided at the annual oratorical contest at the Saugerties High School last Friday evening. The judges, Poulitney Bigelow, The Rev. Dr. C. G. Ellis and Mr. Brinnier, after listening to the several contestants, awarded the first prize of $50 for young women to Esther Weller, the first prize of $50 for young men to Ashley W. Simmons, the second prize of $25 for young women to Myrtle E. Meyer and the second prize of $25 for young men to Herbert E. Hunziker.

There were three other contestants, Elizabeth Latham, Esther J. Sherwood and Earl Hawke. To each of these contestants a $10 prize was awarded, the funds being provided by Mr. Brinnier, one of the judges. The Saugerties Post in regard to the affair says:

"In presenting the prizes Poulitney Bigelow said it was rarely that such an excellent lot of orations had been given and it was a difficult task for him and his colleagues, the Rev. C. G. Ellis of the Wurts Street Presbyterian Church, Kingston, and Ex-Mayor William D. Brinnier, to arrive at a choice as each judge had felt that all of the speakers deserved a prize, and that Mr. Brinnier had solved the problem by graciously and generously consenting to provide a cash prize for those who had not been chosen winners, and accordingly Elizabeth Latham, Esther J. Sherwood and Earl Hawke were presented $10 each. This unexpected and praiseworthy example of liberality on the part of Mr. Brinnier was hailed with great applause, and it served to infuse a fine spirit of good cheer in those who, failed to gain a prize, had labored so earnestly and enthusiastically in the competition. The judges discharged their exacting duty nobly and their decisions were heartily approved by the audience."

Convenience and correct dress demand two watches

In the office and on the road, and when a man pursues his outdoor hobbies, a strap watch proves an invaluable possession.

So too should a woman wear a strap watch for sport. The intricate mechanism of her dress wristlet should not be put to the continued stress of such rigorous activity.

Yet with evening dress a man's strap watch becomes incongruous and a woman's sport model an ornament of doubtful taste. They who hold convenience and correct dress as things of consequence, possess two watches—a strap watch for business and the sports, and a dress watch for social wear.

Our extensive showing of watches dressed in the popular Wadsworth White Gold Cases is especially interesting.

By dint of doing a little, or even a very little, every day, there is no lover of poetry and beauty who in the course of a few months might not be as deep as a bee in some of the sweetest flowers of other languages.—Leigh Hunt.

A small boy, who is observed consequently well informed in age, was questioned by his mother about a scratch she had just on one of her pieces of furniture replied: "I didn't do that; cat see it's only a birthmark."
